THE VOICE OF AMERIKUA

Bulletin #7 of the Movement for the American Indigenous Solar cultures (M.A.I.S.)

Dear Spiritual Friends, PASH..., IN LAK'EH...!

This month of the Male Goat (Capricorn), which loves the heights, the solitudes, the silence, represents austerity, announces the beginning of the pilgrimage through the zodiacal route of the inner realization for the most advanced of disciples. The sun shines in this classroom of the Zodiacal Academy, accompanied by Pluto and Venus, giving us beautiful lessons in the sacred knowledge for the human redemption.

. Let us take advantage of the messages from the Book of the heavens, legacy of the wise ancestors. This is where they wrote the existential knowledge that guides humanity's spiritual ascension thanks to the presence of the High Initiates, true masters in the art of living in magic and dynamic equilibrium.

The regent of Capricorn, Saturn, is in correspondence to the first chakra. It is a month of austerity, discipline, meditation, prayer, of preparing and opening the way for the ascension of that cosmic path in the internal, in the most intimate of the being, until reaching the solar mansion, Leo, the 7° chakra. From there we begin the cosmic and internal descent until reaching Earth again in Capricorn.

When entering the month of the Celestial Water Bearer, Aquarius, the 2nd task begins corresponding to the first chakra: to dispel the darkness of fundamental ignorance with the light of the sacred knowledge, with the study and application of the Universal Initiatic Tradition contained in the Dharma, in the writing of Humanity's Greatest Masters, and in the revealed sciences in Nature and in the Cosmos. For this macro-microcosmic process, everyone should consider the position of the 7 traditional planets in their natal chart, comparing them to the corresponding planets of each zodiacal month. For example, in the month of the Goat, and the Water Bearer, compare the position of the natal Saturn with the Saturn in Transit, to obtain practical conclusions applicable to the personal path.

Another thing is the astrological calendar, that for us is a substitute for the empirical official Gregorian calendar, and which marks the natural beginning of the year in the Spring Equinox, March 21st. Is the external zodiac path, that guides our destiny in relationship to the world, always comparing the natal chart with transits, stations, the lunar mansions, etc.

This is a useful knowledge for the most advanced disciples in the Initiatic Path. The greater the Degree or Dignity, challenges and opportunities for spiritual Realization are also greater; to keep ahead, you will need these keys. But all the Travelers have the possibility to experience this heritage of our wise ancestors, that is, the Divine Science of Existence.

A fraternal greeting, with vows of health and goodness for all beings.

PASH... AI LAK'EN...

Your Brother in service, D. Días Porta

In gratitude to the Kalki Avatar on his 105th anniversary. From the Maestre, the Message, the Teaching of the Path, without the need to exalt the person. Let's remember the orientation the M. S. Maestre Avatar SRF gives to the disciples in his 4° Message of the series The Great Messages:

Let's say a word on Salvation. When one speaks about Salvation, this only means to escape one's state; it is the elevation from one domain to another (and to this explanation must be given only a relative value).

The Human being returns to his origin only through the faculty that was given to exercise his will, to activate his Free Will, to evolve according to Science and his Consciousness; through this concrete formation, through this instruction, with this objective education, his opinion is established; this is his knowledge, his wisdom; but besides this, his impressions, his instructions, his aspirations, form a subjective part of his being, called consciousness to make things easier, and it can be the Soul, the Spirit, etc.

Man has a nature that is comprised of 3 bodies, that will take the most diverse of names, according to concepts and beliefs, but all fortunately, are in agreement in acknowledging these 3 vital stages.

The physical, astral, and divine bodies must be kept perfectly, because they interpenetrate and may cause damage. If man does not work sufficiently in his astral body, a terrible moment awaits at the moment of his physical death, because his astral body is linked to him through his material eyes, his low aspirations etc., and he cannot evolve and this is the second death; in other words, the individuality that is enclosed within him, will be dissolved the same as the physical body, returning all terrestrial form back to its same element. This is the loss of an evolution... Not having accomplished his Mission, this parcel returns to its cosmic plane (without memory naturally, though with valid experiences); the work has failed, and these cells await a new impulse.

This braking of man can be rehabilitated if he makes the required effort: through study, through spiritual progress, the being will build itself a body of light (astral) able to resist the dissolution (to disassociate) in the moment in which the physical body dissolves itself; individuality will have been saved.

From this fact is understood one of the necessities of this incarnated fight, which is necessary to sustain and become better. The Salvation promised by different religions are states of this consciousness after the death of the physical body, understanding that the terms death and birth are not used with the common idea that is accustomed, because there are deaths that cannot be seen, as well as births in the invisible.

-- It is necessary to be unattached, as challenges show us the vanity and transience of these worldly goods, of all that which entered our flight, our sublime evasion: friendships, money, love of unstable fickle women, reputation according to the judgement of malevolent people, of jealousy, of envy; affections, these more or less unscrupulous, the same as perishable, transitory things. At the base of all of these distractions that makes us deviate from the straight path, True Liberation is delayed, the trials, pains, sufferings are prolonged; even more, disappointments increase and bad humor. It is important to cut off all of these attachments that keep us in the world of pain one by one: we have to dominate, discipline, and control ourselves; and thus, our soul will irradiate contemplating the high luminous peaks, to which are penetrated through the most sublime trails in the domain of the immortal...

Happiness is to free ourselves, not only from the webs of a dense society, that is too materialistic, but also to overcome its instincts, its appetites, its impulses. As long as the body is not tamed and definitively submitted to the spirit, its owner is subject to its passions. In order to acquire domination over this animal avid for enjoyment, it is necessary to train, to cultivate, exercise, reinforce its will through the sustained attention on elevated objects, based on an inflexible code of conduct. We must have elevated purposes, speak righteously, take the opportunity in our relationships to guide the least prepared, listen to the most advanced, and get together with people with a sense of fraternity. Abandon everything that only has value through illusion, to which our imagination is very sensitive. The world of sensations is the world of tears, despair, and blood. We must cleanse ourselves of everything that, due to the deformation of our imagination, we believe is real, even though, it is only shadows and darkness. We have to find within ourselves the Universal Life, our stability, our invulnerability, and our balance.

The surest means is in the truth, that taught by Jhesú: “Look first for the Kingdom of God and its justice, and the rest will be given as a consequence.” It is a fact, that with such sentiments one cannot fail, but the lack of faith, is the cause of all evil; because following the Way is going back to the passages of the Scriptures, and transforming from the letter into the spirit; which is to say, to assimilate and impregnate yourself, to fully live the Christian teachings is to enter directly in the Way of Spiritual Realization...

School of Andean Thought

Let's remember the position of the Sun and what it represents: the word “Ti” means Sun, not Inti as it is mistakenly said. The Sun is An-Ti, when it is born, In-Ti, when it reaches the zenith; Qun-Ti, when it hides in the ocean, and Wa-Ti, when it stays invisible on the other side of the world.

So, it is as if it works something like this: when the Sun rises at dawn: Rising Sun, An-Ti, this, after recovering in the “Wa” plane (in the unknown). With full of energy, it begins to transit the plane “KA” (Kay Pacha, of the known) to impregnate mother nature, fertilize the seeds, give color to the leaves of the plants, and make life possible for her; then re-entering again the plane of “Wa” where “it charges energy”, and then again returning to flower the Earth in the “Ka” plane. Like this then, once the Sun is born, when it is found transiting the “sky”, in the middle point between AN-Ti (rising sun) and the Qun-Ti (setting sun) it is called “In-Ti”, that is to say, the Sun (Ti), which is located at noon, reaches its zenith and its maximum luminosity and energy. Here in this point, where in allegoric form, the Sun represents Illa Tiqsi, this is understood as the “Source of Eternal Light”.

This bigger deity or Supreme Energy, Illa Tiqsi, the Incas represent it through the Solar Light of Noon, INTI; being this an allegory of the illumination of the Eternal Light (Illa Tiqsi). From there the Sun (Ti) was one of the most important representations in the Andean cosmivision, because the Incas adore Illa Tiqsi Wiraqucha as their “Giver and Maker of the World”, and the Sun was his “face”, the representation of Illa (Light) for its splendor.

THE REVOLUTION WILL BEGIN IN THE GARDEN

A living species is a creative specie, a species that has created its surroundings to function within it, and for it to be functional. The first living organisms completely changed the planet in the Great Oxygenation. Plants have transformed the Earth in such a way that it makes it habitable and breathable for all of the rest. In this process, plants are and create images. Biology shows us a way for understanding creation as a result of a cognitive process that is beyond-the-human, a neurobiology of plants that are presumed as sentient bodies in interdependent relationships with their surroundings, capable of learning, and that respond by building an imagery of possibilities. J.P Francolini. Summer Solstice, the solar zenith. Southern Hemisphere. The ancient peoples of the Tiwanakotas and Tawantinsuyu, celebrate the summer solstice, as the day of Illa Teqsi Viracocha quetchua, the Capac Inti Raymi, the Willkakuti Aymara. This means it is the plenitude of the year, the Solar moment of its zenith, the highest point of the Sun. It is the longest day and the shortest night, where the solar rays are poured over our crown in a perpendicular straight angle. It is the Initiatic ceremony of the young men. The solstices are masculine, and the equinoxes are feminine, it could be said. Unlike us, the northern hemisphere, is in the opposite complementary cycle: the sun is born and begins, here in the south we are at the half of the solar year. Ancient Andean astronomers, differentiated three different types of Sun, being “Ti” sun. the Anti, corresponds to the solar dawn, to the east, the first Era. The Inti is noon and the zenith, the second Era, and last is the Qunti, sunset, in the west, the third Era. There the Sun sinks into the origin, to return vivified in a new Anti. Synchronizing.

THE PARABLE OF THE EMPTY BOTTLE

A monk decided to meditate alone, away from his monastery. He took the boat to the middle of the lake, moored it there, closed his eyes, and began meditating. After some hours of silence, he felt the sudden bump of another boat against his.

With his eyes still closed, he felt his anger increase. He was ready to yell at the boatman that so carelessly had perturbed his meditation. But, when he opened his eyes, he was surprised to see that it was an empty boat that had bumped his. It had probably untied and floated into the center of the lake.

In that moment, the monk had a revelation. He understood that anger was inside himself; he just needed a bump from an external object to take it out of himself. From then on, every time that he found someone that made him irritated, he reminded himself, that the other person was no more than an empty boat: the anger was inside of him...!

WAKAN TANKA, GREAT SPIRIT... Teach me how to trust my Heart, my Mind, my Intuition, my Interior Knowledge, the Senses of my body, the Blessings of my Spirit. Teach, so I can enter into my Sacred Space and to love beyond my fears, and in this way, walk in Balance with the step of each Glorious Day. Lakota Prayer.
